A Weekly Update from Everglades Imagery

May 8, 2005

The Experience

This week has been pretty uneventful. I spent a lot of time in front of my computer working on images from the past few weeks. Late in the week I lost my phone connection which means I can't get on the internet to update my weblog or newsletter. Therefore, the next few weeks my weblog and newsletter will be updated sporadically as I am wait for a service person to come and reconnect my phone. Please be patient with me until I can get back online regularly.

The Photos

This week I am going to try something a little bit different with the photos section of the newsletter. While I was at Marco Island on Friday, I spent almost an hour photographing a Reddish Egret. I was able to get very close to this bird resulting in some spectacular portraits. Here are some of the images of this uncommon bird.
